

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES
FAMILY STUDIES AND HUMAN SERVICES – M.S.

- Students will demonstrate the ability to create knowledge through the analysis and synthesis of primary and secondary source materials within the context of contemporary family theories.
- Students will demonstrate the ability to seek, find, collate, evaluate, and synthesize information on families and human services from a variety of sources into coherent, concise written materials, including research proposals.
- Students will be able to model and demonstrate leadership behaviors among human services professionals and to prepare professional oral, written, and audiovisual materials to communicate with range of audiences. Students will represent themselves and the profession with ethical and professional standards.